

Columbine Hondo is our common ground.

Francisco "Cisco" Guevara, owner, Los Rios River
Runners, Des Montes, NM

Photo by Geraint Smith

Preserving wilderness protects the watershed that is the source of our rivers, which are vital to the outdoor recreation business. Outdoor recreation is a major component in tourism, which is a leading economic factor in the state of New Mexico. The outdoor recreation industry is also a major source of jobs, encompassing all businesses and services. Protecting Columbine Hondo as wilderness is good for everyone. Thank you, Senators Bingaman and Udall for working to protect our economy, our natural treasures, and our way of life.

Help protect our wilderness, water, and heritage. www.columbinehondo.org

The Columbine Hondo
WILDERNESS COALITION